

Tiburon

Classic Japanese country dwelling melded into its natural setting and the graceful serenity of its stunning gardens, serene water features and calming water views. Elaborate built-in cabinetry in Tansu style with hand-forged iron pulls, translucent shoji screens, engawas opening to gardens and views, traditional tatami mat room with tokonoma, bath with soaking tub, indoor rock garden and exquisite outdoor gardens with rocks, waterfalls, ponds, stone bridge and pathways, and the majestic hipped gable and shed roofs, of copper, with their deep and graceful overhanging eaves. With nearly invisible mortise and tenon, and dovetail joinery, massive spanning logs of pine and fir and curved beam of incense cedar, rough timbers and hand-planed surfaces of over 18 carefully-chosen wood species, this residence reflects the richness of centuries-old architectural woodworking techniques and the quintessence of fine artisan craftsmanship. Containing the crucial elements of an authentic 16th-century Japanese country home, designed for easy indoor/outdoor living and supplied with technically advanced 21st-century electronic communications and comfort amenities, this home provides a rare and privileged opportunity to experience American life, Japanese style. Five bedrooms, three of which serve as master suites, and five full baths...
